POLICY RELEVANCE and ADDED VALUE of the PROJECT

This project fiche accommodates requests during the year for additional research, analysis, assistance and support, which are primarily based on FRA’s work in the above areas.

Additional activities in the area of “Non-Discrimination” focus on the Agency’s task to provide evidence-based assistance and expertise through targeted engagement with key stakeholders, thereby ensuring that FRA evidence informs and feeds into policy processes at the EU and national levels. This can include activities related to equal treatment and all forms of discrimination, including background research relating to Article 21 on non-discrimination of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union, as well as on discrimination on the grounds of nationality. This will be achieved through a combination of desk research, meetings with stakeholders and awareness raising through participation at relevant meetings, events and conferences, also following up on reports published by the Agency in previous years. In 2020, FRA will continue its close engagement with the EU High Level group on Non-discrimination, Equality and Diversity supporting the work of the Subgroup on Equality Data.

Work undertaken in relation to the above can encompass analysis with respect to gender, age and disability – depending on the nature of specific requests for input. Particularly, upon demand FRA will continue to provide evidence-based advice to the Commission related to the development of the post-2020 EU Disability Strategy and contribute to capacity building activities on independent living of persons with disabilities, based on Agency’s multi-annual research on the transition from institutional to community-based care.

PROJECT OBJECTIVES

- To provide opinions and evidence based advice;
- Issue analyses and papers based on existing materials, when required and update selected publications;
- Make findings of FRA surveys and research available to policy makers;
- To update work on the political participation of persons with disabilities in respect to legal capacity;
- Relevant communication and cooperation activities.

POLICY RELEVANCE and ADDED VALUE of the PROJECT

A trust based relationship between police and the population as a whole and in its diversity can help to prevent unlawful profiling. Such trust can also help to increase crime reporting by victims to the police. As a result, police can better protect victims and this ultimately contributes to achieving a just and cohesive society with less tensions. Applied new technologies in this context such as large scale databases and algorithmic profiling bring along new discrimination and data protection risks.

The work of the Agency in this area builds on the guide on preventing unlawful profiling published in 2018, the fundamental rights based police training manual, the projects on biometrics, surveillance and artificial intelligence, as well as data on police stops and searches in EU MIDIS I and II. FRA was consulted on policy level initiatives by the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe (PACE), which put in place a motion for resolution to prevent discriminatory profiling and by OHCHR Committee on the elimination of racial discrimination (CERD) which drafted a general recommendation on preventing and combating racial profiling.

FRA support aims at strengthening fundamental rights compliance within the areas of criminal and immigration law enforcement, in particular, by advising authorities in Member States on how to avoid practices that risk resulting in unlawful profiling, by assisting to unveil discriminatory profiling on all grounds, including nationality, age and gender, in addition to ethnic origin. In 2019 and 2020 FRA contributed to building capacities of police officers through CEPOL webinars. FRA has further conducted a conference in cooperation with the Independent Police Complaints Authorities' Network (IPCAN) focusing on fundamental rights aspects of related law enforcement work. A workshop with EQUINET looked into ways how equality bodies can be better equipped to combat unlawful profiling.

In 2020 FRA will aim at strengthening the capacity of those equality bodies that are in charge of handling police complaints to step up and harmonize data collection. FRA will continue working with CEPOL on unlawful profiling and it will further engage with the other JHA agencies, EUROPOL and EBCGA and Member States in the prevention of unlawful profiling, particularly in the context of handling large scale data.

PROJECT OBJECTIVES

- Contribute to awareness raising and understanding of the European legal framework that applies to the use of profiling by law enforcement officers and border guards at national level;
- Contribute to the proper implementation of European data protection standards relevant for the prevention of unlawful profiling in the fields of law enforcement and border management;
- Enhance cooperation with Member State authorities as well as EUROPOL, EBCGA and CEPOL as key users on the prevention on unlawful profiling

POLICY RELEVANCE and ADDED VALUE of the PROJECT

The directive on procedural safeguards for children who are suspects or accused persons in criminal proceedings (Directive 2016/800/EU), which is part of the Criminal Procedure Roadmap set out in the Stockholm programme, was adopted in 2016, with the transposition deadline having expired on 11 June in 2019. According to Article 25 of the directive, the Commission shall, by 11 June 2022, submit a report to the European Parliament and to the Council on the implementation of this directive.

The directive aims to enhance the right to a fair trial in criminal proceedings across the EU by laying down minimum rules to make sure that the procedural safeguards for children who are suspects or accused persons in criminal proceedings are respected throughout the EU, in accordance with existing international standards and guarantees; in particular those relating to the child's best interests and the child's right to be heard in accordance with Article 24 of the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union (EU Charter) as well as the right to a fair trial and the rights of defence arising from Articles 47 and 48 of the EU Charter and Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights (hereinafter the ECHR). By ensuring the minimum standards across the EU in this area, the new rules are supposed to contribute to the strengthening of the Member States' trust in each other's criminal justice systems.

The project, as requested by the European Commission, will complement the Commission's implementation report due in June 2022, further exploring practices and opportunities in the context of the application of the minimum procedural safeguards under the directive, such as the child's right to a lawyer and legal assistance, individual assessment, and safeguards when children are deprived of their liberty. The project will situate its research in a wider context of an important group of rights known as the 'rights of defence' and, in this way, will build on the findings of FRA's previous projects in this area, namely on: the right to interpretation, translation and information; the right of access to a lawyer and the rights of persons requested under the European Arrest Warrant; presumption of innocence; as well as FRA's work on rights of the child, particularly in the area of child friendly justice and mapping minimum ages in judicial proceedings. Apart from the relevant standards of the EU (incl. the EU Charter) and the Council of Europe such as the Council of Europe guidelines on child-friendly justice, due regard will be also given to relevant standards from the United Nations such as General Comment 24 to the UN CRC on children's rights in the child justice system.

PROJECT OBJECTIVES

- Contribute to the Commission's assessment under Article 25 of Directive 2016/800/EU;
- Contribute to the proper implementation of fundamental rights and secondary EU legislation at Member State level as concerns specific aspects of the procedural rights of children who are suspects or accused persons in criminal proceedings

POLICY RELEVANCE and ADDED VALUE of the PROJECT
This project follows-up activities related to past projects and covers ad-hoc requests for support by EU institutions, as well as initiatives taken in the implementation of the cooperation agreements with the Justice and Home Affairs agencies. The main activities under the project will be communicating research findings and providing fundamental rights expertise to EU institutions and bodies in areas such as asylum, border management, EU IT systems, migrant smuggling and trafficking in human beings, severely exploited migrant workers, return and readmission, as well as Schengen evaluations and refugee/migrant integration. Evidence-based advice will also be provided as relevant to other key policy makers, particularly at national level. FRA will also carry out targeted research and analysis, draft or update reports, handbooks and/or fundamental rights guidance or other capacity-building tools. It will attend coordination meetings with JHA agencies and expert meetings by the European Commission. The project also allows FRA to actively participate in the Consultative Forum of EBCGA and EASO, implement the 2018 EU Agencies Joint Statement of commitment to working together to address trafficking in human beings and offer expert advice and support to CEPOL, ECDC, EASO, eu-LISA, EUROPOL, EUROJUST, and EBCGA in close cooperation with the Commission.
PROJECT OBJECTIVES
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • share robust evidence where there is a knowledge gap, particularly on fundamental rights issues relating to large-scale IT systems, refugee integration, border management, return, as well as other policy relevant issues; • respond effectively to requests for fundamental rights expertise by EU institutions; • advise the European Commission, Member States and EBCGA on how to incorporate fundamental rights in Schengen evaluations; • provide timely and legally sound advice to EBCGA, EASO, eu-LISA, EUROJUST, as well as EUROPOL, CEPOL and ECDC with respect to the application of fundamental rights in their respective spheres of work; • Develop tools and practical guidance.

POLICY RELEVANCE and ADDED VALUE of the PROJECT

The project feeds into EU policy files on legal immigration and migrant integration under Article 79 of the TFEU.

In 2003, the EU adopted Directive 2003/109/EC on long-term residents. The directive sets out different rights for long-term residents, including their equal treatment with nationals in a number of areas, security of residence status, enhanced protection against expulsion as well as intra-EU mobility. Currently, 10.5 million third-country nationals in the EU-27 are long-term residents. However, only one out of four, enjoys a residence status based on the EU Long-Term Residents Directive. The rest lives in EU Member States with permits issued under national law outside the scope of application of Long-Term Residents Directive. Findings of the FRA's second EU Minorities and Discrimination survey (EU MIDIS II) have shown that having an insecure residence status decreases the level of trust in public authorities and the attachment to the country of residence. The results of this project intend to fill the information gap on the experiences of long-term residents across the EU. They will shed light on how EU Member States implement the relevant EU legislation and why the take-up of EU long-term residence status is low, illustrating the impact on the rights of long-term residents, as enshrined in EU law, including intra-EU mobility. The research will pay particular attention to fundamental rights challenges for women, children and persons with disabilities. The FRA research will help EU Member States and EU institutions to take informed measures to further their integration and social cohesion policies from a fundamental rights perspective.

The project follows up on FRA's work on the integration of young refugees and on migrant integration more generally. It will help EU Member States and EU institutions to take informed measures to further their migration, integration and social cohesion policies from a fundamental rights perspective. More specifically, this research takes into account the March 2019 fitness check of the European Commission on EU legislation on legal migration and the implementation report of the Long-Term Residents Directive which reveals that several Member States have not transposed properly the equal treatment principle in their immigration legislation. It also reveals that long-term residents in the EU do not make use of the possibility to move and work in other EU Member States (intra-EU mobility). The fitness check highlights the need to improve data collection on the implementation of the EU acquis. Moreover, the new pact on migration and asylum published by the European Commission on September 23 2020 seeks to facilitate the access to the EU long-term resident status for beneficiaries of international protection. It also suggests a revision of the Directive on long-term residents to promote the use of the EU status on long-term residents by third country nationals living in the EU Member States and to strengthen the right to intra-EU mobility.

The European Commission 2016 Action Plan on the integration of third-country nationals requested FRA to "monitor social inclusion and the participation of third-country nationals in society from a fundamental rights perspective".

This project, which will consist in desk research, analysis of existing quantitative data as well as qualitative field research, is a concrete response to this call.

PROJECT OBJECTIVES

- Assess the situation of long-term residents in the EU from a fundamental rights perspective by collecting and analysing comparable EU-wide (qualitative and quantitative) data.
- Provide assistance and advice to EU institutions and EU Member States in the implementation of EU law and inform the discussion about its revision.
- Inform discussions at the EU level for a comprehensive legal migration policy that promotes effective integration as a core element.

POLICY RELEVANCE and ADDED VALUE of the PROJECT

EU institutions and Member States have stressed the need to communicate and raise awareness of fundamental rights. The Agency will continue to develop a range of activities to fulfil this need based on its '10 keys to effectively communicating human rights', which guide the Agency in its own communication work. To this end, FRA has set up a 'Communicating rights Programme', also to ensure the mainstreaming of issues and topics related to gender, children and youth, and persons with disabilities in all of the Agency's communication activities.

In 2020, the Agency will further promote and expand its e-Media Toolkit, to build capacity among media professionals in reporting on migration and asylum issues. Media professionals will benefit from face-to-face training or using webinars in the toolkit's application. In addition, communicators from national human rights institutions, equality bodies and civil society organisations will also be invited to make use of the toolkit and its training opportunities. If successful, the toolkit methodology may be used to develop other online training toolkits, for example on communicating rights or the Charter.

FRA will organise two EU Presidency conferences, convening specific stakeholders, in particular senior officials at EU and national level, as well as civil society, on issues related to fundamental rights, which are of particular importance in the EU policy agenda.

In addition, the Agency will follow up on calls to action included in the Chair's Statement of the 2018 Fundamental Rights Forum and start preparations for the Fundamental Rights Forum in 2021(see dedicated project fiche).

The Agency will continue to communicate fundamental rights, based on set communication priorities for 2020 and informed by its survey and research findings. This will include social media campaigns to promote on the one hand the outcome of specific projects and on the other more generally fundamental rights. In this context, FRA has established a closed Facebook group of human rights communicators to exchange information and experiences on human rights communication. The Agency intends to organise and participate at face-to-face meetings of human rights communicators. In 2020, FRA will follow up on the human rights communicators' network meeting of October 2019.

In parallel, the Agency intends to explore the potential for developing an online blog where staff will be able to publish blogs not directly related to the Agency's specific outputs. Senior agency staff will moderate this activity.

PROJECT OBJECTIVES

- Provide safe space for convening stakeholders to discuss fundamental rights issues
- Assist media professionals in improving their reporting on fundamental rights issues
- Facilitate the exchange of good practice among those involved in communicating human rights issues

POLICY RELEVANCE and ADDED VALUE of the PROJECT

FRA disseminates the results of its work and raises public awareness (Founding regulation, Art. 4, a and h) through a range of communication activities. These aim to ensure that its work reaches the appropriate audiences at the right time in an appropriate format through the appropriate channels. Communication priorities set for 2020 will guide the Agency's communications and dissemination, ensuring a coherent approach across the wide range of activities. In its communication and dissemination activities, the Agency will pay particular attention to gender, children and youth, and the needs of persons with disabilities.

Production and dissemination activities are carried out both online and offline (print). In this context, a great number of research-related deliverables are produced – as listed under the different project fiches outlined in the previous sections. The Agency uses strategic communication services to ensure timely, relevant and high impact driven dissemination of its findings.

In addition, the Agency will continue to produce a number of information products, including awareness-raising material, and disseminate it to the Agency's stakeholders.

The online activities are primarily conducted through the Agency's web and social media presence. They are continuously reviewed to reflect technological developments and their content is regularly updated.

PROJECT OBJECTIVES

- Communicating FRA's work to the general public and specific target audiences through online, print and audio/visual means
- Informing policymakers, experts and practitioners at EU and national level about a range of fundamental rights issues based on the Agency's evidence and expertise
- Developing state-of-art online communication tools to promote fundamental rights issues
- Diversifying print production to respond to the needs of specific audiences, such as persons with disabilities
